

Cut Unwanted Media Step by Step

No matter how careful you are with your recording you will probably need to cut out a section of audio or video.

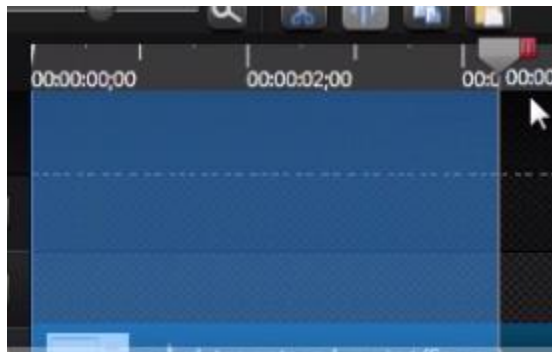

Once you have your recording in your timeline, in order to cut something from your timeline you will need to make a selection using your green and red in and out functions on your playhead.

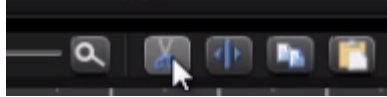

To make a more precise cut you may need to use the zoom in slider. This will allow you to see the breaks in the audio much easier.

When you have found where you need to cut. Click and drag the red output to highlight the selection. If you press the spacebar, your video will playback only what is in that selection. Therefore you are able to correct if needed.

When you have chosen the selection that you wanted cut out click the cut button.

Everything from the right will automatically move to the left. If you want to clip from the end, put the playhead at the beginning of the cut section and hover over the very end until you see a double arrow. Then click and drag the section of the cropped area that you want removed until you reach the playhead.
